INCIDENT SUMMARY

A hole in a steel salt water disposal line caused their containment unit to fill up with production water. The containment unit continued to fill up and eventually flow over the berm and spill off location. Production water traveled down the roadway; roadways, soil, and natural vegetation were impacted. 44 barrels were released. The pipeline has been shut off and will not be put back into service until it is repaired. A vac truck was on site and able to suck up 36 barrels of production water; it's estimated that 8 barrels soaked into soils. Javelin Energy plans to flush and recover the contaminated soil with clean water to reduce its salinity. Caller is going to file a UDOGM report.
